Letter from Organising Committee Chair

In July 2027, ANZIF is proudly hosting the Forestry Futures Conference, celebrating 100 years of the NZ Institute of Forestry and looking forward to the next century in forestry. The conference brings together people shaping the future of our industry from across New Zealand, Australia and the Commonwealth. Sponsoring the conference places your organisation at the heart of a global discussion about resilience, innovation and the future of our forests.

This is a rare opportunity to sit at the table with leading professionals to support the future of forestry, including scientists, practitioners, policymakers, and innovators who are actively designing a future that is productive, resilient, and connected to the social and environmental values our communities rely on.

Forestry is foundational to resilient regional economies and a low carbon future. By advancing critical thinking on these challenges, this conference will generate impacts that extend far beyond New Zealand's borders.

Your sponsorship will directly contribute to the development of bold and innovative strategies for forest recovery, resilience and sustainability, as well as demonstrate your organisation's commitment to a cause that resonates with communities, governments and stakeholders worldwide.

What it means for you:

- Position your brand: gain brand visibility across all conference materials, including banners, brochures and digital platforms
- Have a meaningful role in the conversation: speaking opportunities and panel participation to showcase your thought leadership
- Space to build relationships with key decision makers, practitioners and influencers across the forestry sector
- The chance to engage directly with a highly invested professional audience by showcasing your work in an exclusive exhibition space to present your products and services.
- Extend your reach through media exposure and promotion via the NZIF's national and international networks.

Sincerely,

Mathilde Batelier-Belton
Conference Committee Chair

NZ Institute of Forestry Profile

The New Zealand Institute of Forestry (NZIF) is an organisation with a proud history, entering its centennial year.

Founded in 1927, NZIF provides a forum for those involved in all aspects of forestry, including forest management, utilisation, processing, research, education and consulting. It also facilitates the exchange of ideas and information among all forest stakeholders.

NZIF members are involved with a wide range of forests, not just those where timber production is the primary objective. This includes forests for conservation, recreation, biodiversity protection, carbon storage, erosion control and urban and water quality enhancement.

The Institute encourages the highest standards of ethical and professional performance among its members.

Today, this role is even more vital in an industry which has continued to evolve and grow significantly since its inception.

NZIF membership is an acknowledgement of high levels of competence through education, experience and ability, and demonstrates a member's commitment to professional practices and values.

The Institute is committed to serving the profession of forestry and the wider community through education, accountability and its Code of Ethics and Performance Standards. Increasingly, it fulfils a quality assurance role, setting the benchmark for professionalism and the quality of advice and practice by which members and others in the profession are measured.

Australian Forestry Profile

Forestry Australia is an independent, not-for-profit professional association representing more than 1,100 forest scientists, managers and growers working across native forests, plantations, private forestry and environmental services. Its members are committed to the principles of sustainable forest management and to generating environmental, social, cultural and economic outcomes across all types of forests and land tenures.

The Benefits of Sponsorship

Sponsors of the centennial conference are not just supporting an event. They are helping shape the next century of forestry in New Zealand and across Australasia, while building lasting connections with the people and organisations who will lead it

A range of sponsorship options for the 2027 ANZIF Conference are enclosed.

This event provides a unique opportunity for sponsors to profile their businesses, products and services while supporting the professional fellowship within the forest industry.

- Conference sponsorship offers a rare opportunity to promote your organisation to the largest gathering of professional foresters in Australasia. Advertising prominence to foresters in Aotearoa and Australia and their respective organisations over a concentrated three day period, with pre conference publicity via email, international newsletter, social media and websites.
- An opportunity to learn about the latest developments in forestry. With exposure at the Conference, you will significantly increase the opportunity to attract the best and brightest professionals to your organisation.
- An opportunity to network with foresters and allied professionals at the Conference and on field trips.
- This conference will be attended not only by NZIF and Australian Forestry members but also by a large contingent from the Commonwealth Forestry Association, Pacific Islands, carbon traders and emitters, finance advisors, lawyers, accountants, land owners and conservationists. This provides an exceptional opportunity to network and gain exposure to a diverse range of forestry and carbon market professionals.
